

PEARD REAL ESTATE FITNESS CHALLENGE RAISES $76,000 FOR TELETHON

Monday 17 October 2016: They partnered together last year in one of the most exciting Telethon challenges yet, and Matt and Soa came back to do it all again, but this time, they weren't alone.

The men were joined by Josh Catalano, a chef and third generation fishmonger from Catalano Seafoods, who was riding for his little boy, Lenny, born premature at 24 weeks.

Matt Fuller, owner of Fuller Fitness, UFC heavyweight, Soa "The Hulk" Palelei and Josh Catalano pushed through the 24-hour endurance test over the weekend to raise much needed funds for the sick children of WA.

All three men successfully completed the challenge, wowing onlookers who came to cheer and support them at the Perth Convention and Exhibition Centre.

Maree Overton, Managing Director of Peard Real Estate, said the company was thrilled to have sponsored the event for its fifth consecutive year.

"It was incredible to witness Matt, Soa and Josh's endurance and commitment- they are true champions.

"Josh's personal story added to the emotional weekend that is Telethon and we felt like we were all on the journey with him.

"There was not a dry eye left in the room as the boys finished their last few seconds of the challenge and it was an amazing moment to be a part of.

"Telethon is a cause that is very close to all of our hearts, and as a company, we are so proud to be the challenge's major sponsor," said Mrs Overton.

The challenge raised an impressive $76,000 with Peard Real Estate presenting the final cheque for $40,000.

premium property people